Open workshop | September 12th and 13th 2016

Blanchard International Serbia invite you to participate in a unique training experience by applying to a two-day workshop Situational Team Leadership. The workshop will take place on September 12-13th 2016, street Marka Nikolica 11/2 in Belgrade, on Serbian language.

What is it?
Situational Team Leadership is a unique process for managing and developing teams. The participants will get the tools and learn the processes which will help them coordinate team members in order to improve cooperation and problem solving in a faster and more successful way. The training is based on a model Situational Leadership II which means that it’s focused on improvement of the teams trough their development levels and that it’s coordinated with the language and the tools of the Situational Leadership II.

To whom it is addressed?
Managers and supervisors of all levels, as well as the human resources managers which contribute to the team efficiency in the company. All of the people who have the need to lead their teams as a unity.

Which skills will participants develop?
Better understanding of the behavior of the effective leaders and team members
Creating a vision and values of the team for optimum performance
Respecting, evaluating and having confidence in the contribution of each employee
Communicating effectively verbally and nonverbally
Accepting responsibility and showing it at work
Increasing the adaptability and skills to overcome obstacles in the environment as well as within the team
Increasing every opportunity for success

Demonstration of the above skills at the work place will result in the following outcomes:
